

Dear Everyone at Bluepie.

Once again we have to say how we are amazed at the way you have transformed one of our old tracks and dragged us kicking and screaming into the 21st century. I don't think that in our wildest dreams we could have imagined us being accepted by the youth oriented dance crowd.

But here it is. Hot on the heels of the radical version of Sweets For My Sweet we have an updated Sugar & Spice sounded like it has never sounded before. I think we would be the first to say we know absolutely zilch about the dance scene and what makes one record a success and another a flop. But it sounds so powerful and by the reaction in the clubs you guys there certainly know your stuff.

Sugar & spice is one of those Searchers songs that we feel was simply looked on as a predictable follow up to 'Sweets' and had never quite received the praise due to it until it was featured in the movie Good Morning Vietnam. And now all these years later with the unique imagination of The OUTsider it is going to reach a whole new generation of kids. Keep up the good work. We look forward very much to being 'trendy' again. The trouble is we can't dance!!!
